

Hey Pilots,

Tony again. There has been some confusion out there and I am here to attempt to assist.

We have been asked to explain how to fill out the Proof Of Claim form. I, as yet, have not done so. I think that "my attorney" is responsible for that for me. If you are not represented, there are instructions on the website under correspondence from the Mountain Central Time Campus (for lack of a better name). I can't guarantee how right these instructions are, but they seem to be very concise.

Rumors are flying as to when is the deadline to retain Berger & Assoc. (hire them as our "personal" lawyers in this case). I just got off the phone with Georgeann Nicol. She stated emphatically, that the deadline has been extended until March 10th. Should you wait that long (wait until a Monday morning when the lawyers are already in Las Vegas representing their clients - US)? I don't think so. Probably you should use Wednesday, March 5th, so that you are sure to be on the list of clients.

People are asking, "Should we be going to Las Vegas for the hearing?" Georgeann's response was a very excited, "Yes!" Details to follow on the what, when, where, etc.. If you are interested, I, in my capacity as a travel agent, can get a block of rooms in one of the casinos for a discounted rate. If you want me to do this, write me back.

Everyone, and I mean everyone, needs to respond to this email. We need your current contact info. If you don't respond, we don't know if the email address is good. Of the last few emails I sent out to 176 addresses, 38 of you got back to me. That's almost 22%. Even Kim expected an 80% to pass. And, we need you to pass this information out to as many of your fellow students, locally and cross country, as you can.

Another questions was asked, why, if Berger et al has so many people joining in the group, do they still need to charge $800 per person? My response, and not the law firm's, is that even though that is a lot of money for us to be cumulatively spending, it is a drop in the bucket for lawyers. They have a team of four attorneys working on this case. Two interns join them next week. There is travel time to each of the distant campuses they are visiting. Trips to Vegas (no, not to gamble or to see Mystere, but to meet with the Trustees, file paperwork at the court, etc.). And more paper, pencils, paper clips and coffee with each new client added. Believe me, this is not a lot of money if you consider how much this would cost if we each found our own counsel. 'Nuf said? I hope so.

Questions are starting to pop up regarding, "Is anyone finding schools to work with?" I personally, found Universal Helicopters in Long Beach the second week of the ordeal. They were willing to take me on immediately if I would just bring them a check for $10,000. While they were making that decision, though, I searched the 'net and found they didn't have that stellar a reputation either. So, has any one had any success?

And a couple of questions posed to Berger, et al, by a concerned mom:

Also is this really a class action suite against AES?

Berger's response: . This is NOT a class action. I do not believe that a class action will work. I do not believe that a class can be certified. My plan is to file an Adversary Proceeding the the Las Vegas, Nevada division of the United States Bankruptcy Court against AES, Student Loan Express, Keybank, Citibank and possibly other lenders that were involved in fraud, illegal kickbacks, violation of fair lending laws, breach of contract, etc. THIS ACTION WILL ONLY BE FOR MY CLIENTS. MY CLIENTS WILL BE INDIVIDUALLY NAMED PLAINTFFS. Unlike Dan Reed/ James Harward, and Brown Dean, I have successfully sued to discharge student loans in the past. Unlike Dan Reed/James Harward and Brown Dean, I have worked on Ponzi schem cases before and gotten substantial recoveries for my clients.

We have to start paying $1,100 on April 19th.

Berger's response: I suggest that you call and ask for a deferment now, Many of our clients have had success doing this.

More to follow as I get more info.
